IMPOSITION Citizens of Bangor & vicinity Take Notice.

☞ THERE is hardly an instance on record where a man of any enterprise has commenced in business and with great exertion and expense has become universally known but some one whose intellect being so obtuse that he cannot invent an original idea of his own, has attempted to impose upon the public by adopting the same name, or raising a sign of similar character. This mode of imposition deserves the severest reprimand from the mouth of every honest man.

I have been led to these remarks by noticing numerous advertisements in Bangor papers headed

Main Pillar of OAK HALL.

I would most respectfully inform the citizens of Bangor and vicinity that I have no branch whatever of my establishment nor agency in any part of the United States. The above advertiser also states that he has withdrawn himself from OAK HALL, Boston. To that I can only say that my servant driver of Oak Hall Express, in Boston and vicinity, has withdrawn himself and I have substituted a Gentleman of Color in his place and with his new livery suit and beautiful steed is the admiration of all beholders.

WRIGHT'S Indian Vegetable Pills, OR INDIAN PURGATIVE.

THOUGH many medicines have been before the public for a much longer period than Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills, yet none stands now in higher repute, or has more rapidly attained a firm hold upon popular estimation. The thousands that have used them throughout the length and breadth of the Republic, all bear cheerful testimony to their efficacy and mild operation, when employed in the most distressing disorders which flesh is heir to. To those, however, who have not used them, who are suffering in the incipient or advanced stages of disease, and who are looking round for weapons wherewith to combat the Destroyer—prejudiced inquirers, who must be satisfied with the theory and principle of a course of medical treatment, before they commence, it becomes necessary to make a few preliminary remarks on this invaluable medicine.

The theory of disease, on which WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS are founded is this, viz. "That there is only one primary cause of all the disorders which afflict the human family, and that is corrupt humors—or, in other words, Impurity of Blood. This principle is now generally admitted, that it may in fact be said to be sustained by an universality of opinion—the few dissenters constituting but a very insignificant minority. It is perhaps, therefore, to discuss the soundness of this theory in this place and connection.

THE DISEASES PRINCIPALLY aimed, and intended, to be attacked by all practitioners because the cause, viz: Phrgation. But many of the so called purgatives, instead of relieving the patient, only cure by force of purgation; they are either Sudorific, Cathartic, Diuretic or Expectorant—Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills combine all these properties, and are therefore calculated to attack the elements of disease at all points, and by a harmonious and unmitigated system of evacuation, effectually from the system. Their effect is almost magical, and is no less astonishing for its mildness than its efficacy. Both sexes, and all ages may employ them, without the slightest fear of their effects, while they are certain to cure ALL DISEASES that are remediable, they never inflict an injury upon the system.

The portion of this invaluable medicine exhibits it to unlimited confidence and respect. The nearer it approaches to perfection, the more regardless of both in science and art, the more complete will be our progress in both. Look at the uniform physical condition of the human family throughout the continent, whether exposed to the frosts and storms of the North, or to the rain, heat, and pestilential miasma of the southern climate. Houseless, unprotected, exposed to every atmospheric change, every extreme of the seasons, dwelling at times in morasses and by the margin of unhealthy pools and swamps—They yet enjoy an almost total immunity from disease, while the white man, who enjoys all the wonders of civilization, with its attendant arts, is as much inferior to the former in physical vigor, as he is superior to him in intellectual acquisitions. How does this happen? Simply because, bereft of the light of science, he relies more upon the divine instinct which impels him to select from the produce of the field and forest those remedies which Nature and Nature's God has benevolently provided for the solace of suffering, and the mitigation and cure of disease—sowing them broadcast on every hill and valley. Let the intelligent inquirer, then, and the justice of Divine Providence and print with a sneer to the multitude of invalids who lie groaning upon beds of sickness—turn from the false lightning and study the secrets of nature, and they will adore that mercy which has so bountifully provided a cure for every ill. Nature provides but one.

These Pills, as we before remarked, operate by purgation—by thoroughly cleansing the entire system from all impurities, and making the invalid in the homely but expressive phrase, a new man, whether the disease is INCIPIENT CONSUMPTION, which insidiously attacks the Lungs, producing that dry, hacking cough so painful to the friendly car, or Cutaneous, showing itself upon the skin in eruptions or blotches; whether the Kidneys or the Bowels be affected—Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills are equally efficacious in warding off danger. Their expectorant, cathartic, sudorific and diuretic qualities enable them to take hold of each form of disease.

The perfect safety of the medicine is another all important quality, and one which has contributed more than any thing else to its extension and popularity.

In a word, this medicine commends itself strongly to the patronage of the public, and its use bids fair to become, before long, ALMOST UNIVERSAL.

CAUTION.

The citizens of New England are respectfully informed that, in consequence of the great popularity which Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills have created, by their astonishing goodness, a gang of counterfeiters, who have long industriously engaged in palming on the unsuspecting a VALUELESS and perhaps dangerous medicine, under the name of Indian Vegetable Pills.

☞ BEWARE OF A. L. NORCROSS, of Hartwell, Maine, who is selling COUNTERFEIT PILLS.

This is to inform the public that the genuine medicine has on the boxes—

"WRIGHT'S INDIAN VEGETABLE PILLS."

—Indian Purgative—

OF THE NORTH AMERICAN COLLEGE OF HEALTH.

And also, an engraved border of the label will be found in small type—

"Entered according to Act of Congress in the year 1843, by William Wright, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania."

The public will also remember, that all who sell the genuine Indian Vegetable Pills are provided with a certificate of agency, signed by WILLIAM WRIGHT, Vice President of the North American College of Health. And that pedlars are never in any case allowed to sell the genuine medicine. All traveling Agents will be provided with a certificate of agency as above described, and those who cannot show one will be known as base impostors.

The following highly respectable persons have been appointed Agents for the sale of the above named

Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills.

☞ Attention is relative to the Pills in the advertisement of the NORTH AMERICAN COLLEGE OF HEALTH, 199 Race Street, Philadelphia, Pa. Messrs. Fogg & Hersey, Bestillwater, Maine.

Dear Sir—Your favor of the 1st inst. is duly received, and in reply I would state that I have at this time no agent in Bangor, but should be happy to have one, and would prefer you, if you would be willing to act in that capacity. I have sold a large quantity of Wright's Indian Vegetable Pills, and they have given great satisfaction. I have received a letter from the Agent in Hampden, who says he has sold a large quantity of the Pills, and they are in great demand. Yours, &c. J. P. FITZ, Agent.

Philadelphia, Dec. 1, 1843.

Dear Sir—I received your letter, and in reply would say that I have sold a great quantity of Wright's Indian Vegetable every occasion to carry up his country to the loftiest summit of a durable and just glory, and therefore not disembodied to mere enlargement of territory, if the acquisition had been just, prudent, equitable, honorable; thus velocity of position enabled him to do what few other men of even equal capacity and patriotism could do, enable him to quench the fire of war, and to put people asunder into this stupendous conception of madness and of guilt.

If the election of Mr. Polk, then, may annex Texas, and that of Mr. Clay, defeat or indefinitely postpone it, what are the moral duties of the opponents of annexation, of all parties? You are a Democrat, for example, and you differ on every other account than that of Texas, desire the success of the Democratic ticket. You are an abolitionist, and without expecting the success of your ticket, you would desire to give it the utmost practicable appearance of growth and strength. But can you, in sense and fairness, say, that all the other good which even on your principles, the election of Mr. Polk, or the exhibition of a growing vote for Mr. Birney, would accomplish, or all the other evils which either of these results would prevent, would compensate for the various and the transcendent evil of annexation? Can you doubt, when you calmly weigh all the other good which you achieve by effecting your object, against the mischief you do by annexation, can you doubt that the least thing which you owe your conscience, your country, the utmost which pride and consistency have a right to exact of you is, instantly! You will not say, for instance, that you believe, that a mere postponement of Democratic ascendancy for five years will permanently and irreparably impair the constitution, and the prosperity of our country, or hereave her of a day of her glory? Nor can you, if you are a Democrat, doubt, the evil of the politics which you disapprove. She can afford to wait so long, even you will admit, for the politics which you prefer—that the evil of annexation is so much more intolerable, and so eternal as it is contended. Then terms of presidential office, agitation of hinting, will that display, will not exasperate, the immediate cable wound. Yes, Yes.

He who, souls space nearafter—how long, how brief but space, you may not all taste of death until you know, he who, another Thucydides, another Sumondrpiil above and paint a union disunited, the Silver cord broken, the golden bowl broken at the fountain; he who shall survive and who shall paint the nation's flag folded mournfully, and laid aside in the silent chamber where the immortals of renown and grace now dead, are gathered together; who shall record the fierce conflicts, the profligate ambition, the hot rivalry, the wars of hate, truces of treachery—which shall furnish the matter of the history of alienated States, till one after another burns out and falls from its place on high—he shall entitle the stained and mournful chapter, the consequences of annexation.

But look at this business a little more in its details. I will not discuss the question of its effect on American slavery. Whether it will transplant the strickenface from old States to new; whether it will concentrate it on a different, larger or smaller area than it now covers, whether the result of gain would be to increase or diminish its numbers, its sufferings, and its chances of ultimate emancipation—this is speculation from which I refuse. I repeat what I had the honor to say in the debate on the treaty that the avowed and the direct object of annexation certainly is, to prevent the abolition of slavery on a vast region which would else become free. The immediate effect intended and actually in the first instance, therefore, certainly is the diffusion and increase of slavery.—So far are we. So much we know. More than that no man can be certain that he sees or knows.

Whether this is to work an amelioration of the condition of slavery while it lasts, or to shorten its duration, is in the counsels of Providence. Whether evil still educes good in infinite progression. The means we see are evil. The first effect is evil. The end is uncertain. But, if it were certain and were good, we may not do evil that good may come. Wrong, therefore, I feel it to be my duty distinctly to say, that I would leave to the mercies of slavery every guarantee of the Constitution and the Union—the Constitution as it is—the Union as it is—without which there is no security for us or for them—and not to-day, I still contend, but to-morrow, I deny the morality. I tremble for the consequences, of annexing an acre of new territory, for the mere purpose of diffusing this great evil, this great cause over a wider surface of American earth. Still less would I, for such a purpose merely, lay hold on such a territory as Texas, larger than France, and almost as fair, least of all now, just when the spirit of liberty is hovering over it as set to decend.

Remainder in our next.

Why should Mr. Clay be elected President!

Because he is a patriot and statesman, who has from his earliest history in public life labored to establish peace and security for the prosperity and happiness of his country. He has ever remained at his post whether the sunshine of prosperity has beamed upon this Republic or the clouds of adversity have hovered about it. No allurements of office—no private pique or disappointment—no threats or derision have ever for a moment swerved him from the path of patriotism and duty—from devoting the whole powers of his mighty intellect to the "greatest good of the greatest number." He has been emphatically a man of the people and a man for the people. During the last war, it was his clear unusical voice which was offtimes heard in Congress in favor of the justice of our cause. It was his thrilling, his heart-stirring eloquence, more perhaps than any thing else, that aroused the people and gave them a clear view of their rights and duty—that animated them to press forward for the preservation of their homes and firesides—for all those invaluable and abundant blessings which are now possessed by so many millions of intelligent and happy freemen scattered throughout the length and breadth of this vast Republic. But his efforts for liberty and the good of mankind have not been confined to his own country. He has a philanthropy extended enough for the world. His soul feels for every human being, and were it in his power, he would gladly give to all, beneath the light of the sun, the same privileges which his own country men enjoy. Wherever has been manifested the spirit of liberty—the love of freedom there has his sympathy been strongly exercised—yes the influence of his voice—of his efforts, have kindled the fire of patriotism—of love of law and order, and hatred of tyranny and oppression in the far distant regions of the Globe.

But if there is any one prominent reason why Mr Clay deserves more from the American people than any other man, it is for his effort in behalf of the "American system," of which he has been well termed the father, for at all times and under all circumstances, he has unwavervingly stood by and protected it "through evil and through good report."

We need not go into details as to the origin and history of this measure, as they must be familiar to every one who has given but a limited attention to the history of his country. Let it however be remarked, that Mr Clay's attachment to the several principles of this measure have been so long and so well known to every one that
